

Better Dogs Brighter Lives!

POWER POOCHES

Training Happier Dogs for a Brighter Tomorrow!

WAIT VS STAY

What is the difference between a "Stay" cue and a "Wait" cue?

WAIT

"Wait" is asking your dog to pause for a moment, then when given a release cue, they can proceed to the next cue or activity.

"Wait" may be used for:

- Before going through a doorway to prevent them bolting
- Before being allowed to eat to stop them jumping at you
- On a walk to pause before crossing
- Pause before putting on harness, leash, equipment
- Anytime you need your dog to be patient for a few seconds

STAY

"Stay" is asking your dog to be in the same place for a while, until you return to them and give the release cue.

"Stay" may be used for:

- Getting your dog to stay in a place while something is going on
- Keeping your dog safe from hazards
- Helping your dog to settle for a period of time
- Helping them through an unwanted behaviour
- At a vet or groomer when being handled

HAND SIGNALS

Training Stronger Bonds!

Please refer to the Power Pooches YouTube Library for instructional videos on teaching these cues

www.powerpooches.com